NEXTPAGE 09.2026

We're excited to introduce the 2026 version of NEXTPAGE! built directly from your feedback, this release brings key improvements:

- for key users and contributors, an easier way to fill in data with tag filter
- for readers, a redesigned navigation menu and a refreshed My Account page, plus greater flexibility with a new PDF quality option when publishing.

Our goal is simple: help you work faster, easier, and more comfortably every day — based on what you told us. We hope you enjoy exploring this new version!

PIM FILL IN PRIORITY

You told us: finding the essential information about products easily is your top priority.

That's why we're launching a large-scale project, together with all Business Unit technical teams across the group, to complete key product data.

By the end of 2026, you'll find the following information for every product reference, at a minimum: dimensions, weight, main material, product standards, technical information, a photo and a technical drawing.

A big thank you to all the teams who will be contributing to this project over the coming weeks and months!
